APPLYING A SYSTEM APPROACH TO THE STUDY OF THE STATE

The article discusses the features of applying a systematic approach to the study of the state. The author critically analyzes a number of domestic publications. It is noted that most researchers only declare the use of a systemic methodology, are limited to describing the state as an integral set of elements. In practice, the application of a systematic approach requires the mandatory acquisition of new knowledge. In its simplest form, it can be a redefinition of established concepts and classifications. A full-fledged application of the system approach is possible only within the framework of constructing large theoretical models. The article reveals the concept of a system as a complexly organized object, its main features are highlighted. The article will be useful, especially for beginning authors - students, job seekers and graduate students.

Keywords: system, systematic approach, state, theory of state and law, state studies, cybernetics.

SCYTHIAN DEER

IN THE MYTHOLOGY OF THE CHUVASH PEOPLE

The article is devoted to a unique monument of world culture - the Scythian deer. The ethno-cultural continuity of Scythian representations in the Chuvash mythology is considered. Complex symbolism of the image is revealed in the process of analyzing the meaning of a deer: a connection with the constellations Ursa Major and Ursa Minor and the Polar Star. Attention is paid to the metals from which deer were made (gold, silver, copper). The connection between the image of a deer and the symbolic meaning of these metals in the three-level world order of ancient Scythians and Chuvashs is traced.

Keywords: Scythians, Scythian deer, Scythian-Siberian animal style, metal, North Star, constellations Ursa Major and Ursa Minor, deer, Chuvash folklore, Chuvash mythology.
